

FDA: Approve the First Targeted PDCD Treatment and Provide Hope for Our Kids

As we head into Christmas and the holiday season, our families are holding onto one simple wish: that the path toward this life-changing treatment becomes clear.

FDA: Approve the First Targeted PDCD Treatment and Provide Hope for Our Kids

Why This Petition Matters

Petition Started October 30, 2025 by Frances Pimentel, mother to her daughter Violet with PDCD

Children with the rare disease Pyruvate Dehydrogenase Complex Deficiency (PDCD) often die in infancy. Many of those who survive face severe neurological, developmental, and physical challenges, including severe energy depletion, intellectual disability, limited mobility, inability to communicate, developmental delay, and irreversible brain damage. PDCD is a devastating, life-threatening, progressive condition. The only way for PDCD kids to survive is to adhere to a strict ketogenic diet that is harsh on the body and associated with serious complications. Even on a rigid keto diet, PDCD kids continue to experience recurring hospitalizations, a need for mobility devices, and medical support for many other daily activities.

But there is hope.

A targeted treatment for PDCD – sodium dichloroacetate (DCA) – has shown encouraging signs in clinical research studies. In a national Phase 3 clinical study, PDCD patients demonstrated a reduction in lactate, the primary biomarker of the disease. In longer trials, including open-label studies, DCA treatment has resulted in sustained developmental improvement in children with PDCD. Critically, when compared to historic cohorts, treatment with DCA has substantially reduced mortality in patients with PDCD. DCA is also an incredibly safe, well-understood intervention. It has been studied as a treatment for mitochondrial diseases for nearly 50 years with very limited adverse events.

Despite these data, the FDA declined to approve DCA in September 2025. More than 80 leading researchers and clinicians in the mitochondrial disease space signed a joint letter of support urging FDA to pursue an expedited, flexible regulatory path forward for DCA as the first and currently only potential treatment for PDCD. In addition, five patient advocacy groups issued a statement expressing deep disappointment in the FDA's decision:

"While we fully support rigorous scientific standards, regulatory flexibility is essential for rare disease populations like PDCD, where delays in access to potentially life-saving therapies can lead to irreversible damage – or even death. Make no mistake, that is the risk when it comes to DCA not being available for PDCD patients."

For the PDCD community, this issue is far more than numbers in a regulatory filing. It's about every child with PDCD – those we have tragically lost and those who are still fighting. It's about the parents who have seen their children "come back to life" in DCA clinical trials and who are terrified they will lose access to this therapy. It's about every PDCD family that is still waiting for Hope.

We urge the FDA to approve DCA – the only treatment that has given PDCD kids stability and improved their lives. This is not about lowering the bar. It's recognizing that for rare diseases, the bar must be different. When another randomized trial is impossible and when a safe therapy is available for a life-threatening disease with no other options, the FDA should use the flexibility that already exists to weigh patient outcomes, not just numbers.

We ask the FDA, publicly and directly, to listen to PDCD families, meet our children, and hear our stories. We want a seat at the table to help shape a path forward. A path that values real-world evidence, patient experience, and the unique challenges of ultra-rare diseases.

A path that offers hope.

Some of our voices can be heard below:

[My daughter] Harlow entered the [DCA] trial...and we saw changes no one could deny. She had more energy. Her mind was sharper. Her quality of life improved. DCA gave her what the ketogenic diet alone could not: stability, relief, and a glimpse of possibility."

-Kim Higbee, Patient Worthy op-ed

We want the FDA to sit down with us, sit down the PDCD patient community and hear our stories... If it's beneficial even a tiny bit, that is going to improve the quality of [my daughter Piper's] life and the length of her life. So we're willing to take that risk – especially if there really isn't a risk if the FDA has said that it's safe."

-Layna O'Connor, West Michigan Channel 13 News

“I could tell when [my daughter] Violet was getting the drug because her lactic acid dropped from five to two, then to one, a healthy number for the first time ever. I can say without a doubt that Violet was on track to develop seizures because her EEG was abnormal without interventions, but normalized after treatment. She is now doing things a neurologist once told us would not be possible; she is starting to put full sentences together and last week she took her first independent baby steps in physical therapy.”

-Frances Pimentel

“Within a couple weeks of starting DCA, we began to see changes [in our daughter, Talia]. We saw a new joy and lightness in her, as if she could forget, even briefly, some of the pain and exhaustion she was facing, and just be a kid. She took her first steps at 3 years old, just 4 months after starting DCA. Within one year, she transitioned from a feeding tube to eating and drinking completely by mouth.”

In Their Words

“Parents should have the opportunity to get their children the treatment they need. Families suffer enough with dealing with a rare diagnosis, so please FDA, have some compassion and use this as an opportunity glean more data on this drug.”

— Katey M., Grand Rapids, MI

“My daughter had another rare disease called MLD. She passed away at age 5 because there wasn't the medicine to save her. Please don't take away life saving medicine from families. That is the only hope they have.”

— Alex V., Wilton, CA

“My grand daughter has Mitochondria disorder and has been helped by this drug. We need to provide her with all the help we can. So please make this possible🙏”

— Alice A., Kouts, IN

“We should all make it our business to care about the betterment of babies' lives, I'm hoping my signature helps!”

— Jessica S., Appomattox, VA

“If there is a drug that can help people and doesn't harm I feel like we need to have it to save lives”

— Skyler D., Baker, MT

“Every child deserves a fighting chance. Time is running out.”

— Alesa R., Tell City, IN

“As someone with my bachelor's degree in Nutrition/Dietetics, we need to move away from antiquated methods, and help these kids with a method we already know to be effective and available. #HopeforPDCD”

— Rebecca W., Lafayette, IN

“The FDA should do what's right!! Help this sweet girl and other like her.”

— Emerald C., Pearsall, TX

“Children deserve better. They should be our first priority. I hope this gets all the attention it needs.”

— Cynthia H., North Mankato, MN

“All kids deserve safety. FDA needs to wake up and protect these children.”

— Shyra H., Mansfield, OH

In Their Words

“Save young kids lives.”

— Lindsay N., Frisco, TX

“If this treatment has been considered safe by the FDA there is absolutely no good valid reason that it should be getting held back from families that want to try it to see if it can extend the life expectancy of their children who are suffering... not allowing it hurts many that it could have potential to benefit if they were only able to try.”

— Michaela S., Eureka, MT

“I truly hope you guys can get this. I don't have money but I have a signature, I really hope it can help. I'll share and tell people. best wishes.”

— Abigail L., Athens, TN

“It's time to start caring about the kids that are here already and about helping their parents... this could help the children tremendously and also help the families.”

— Amaris R., Dallas, TX

“We need to give these people a chance. APPROVE THE TREATMENT!”

— Samantha H., Schertz, TX

“Help Lily get the treatment she needs! And not just butter! In all seriousness, we need to help these kids get the life saving medicine they need!!”

— Fanny Y., Elmhurst, NY

“Do better, FDA, there is reason to further this treatment; children need this.”

— Grace T., Manhattan, KS

“This little girl deserves a shot at living life so why can't we try this treatment if it is safe when babies like her can benefit!”

— Margarette M., San Antonio, TX

“I want to help kids have a better life and future. There is no reason a kid should have to grow up and feel pain so anything I can do to help I'd gladly do.”

— Alahna A., Portland, OR

“These are peoples lives. Wouldn't you do anything to give your baby another chance at a long life?”

— Malcolm M., Portland, OR

In Their Words

“Kids deserve access to health care, it shouldn’t matter if it’s a rare or not.”

— Ahileen G., South Ozone Park, NY

“Parents should have the opportunity to get their children the treatment they need. Families suffer enough with dealing with a rare diagnosis.”

— Zoe S., Vancouver, WA

“Children deserve every chance we can take to save their lives. Please allow for the use of this medicine to save a child. It could be your child in need next!”

— David H., Saint Albans, WV

“These kids need the treatments they deserve.”

— Layla M., Jackson, GA

“FDA!!! Wake up!! If it was your child who had 4 years on average to live, you would do something, give them the opportunity to try these treatments!!!”

— Jasmin A., San Diego, CA

“As someone with a somewhat rare condition, it’s important we don’t get ignored!”

— Margret V., Portland, ME

“The FDA is responsible for food and drug access for Americans. The FDA should follow through with their responsibility to approve treatments like these that are the only hope for some families. These families need the treatments!”

— Jose M., Portland, OR

“The lives of these children matter. Provide them with the healthcare they need!”

— Madi B., Port Elgin, Ontario

“I’d never heard of PDCD, but coming across the video of Lily’s parents opened my eyes to this issue. If all it takes is signatures, let’s get this campaign out there.”

— Connie F., Syracuse, NY

“These children deserve a chance at this treatment! Please sign and share! My thoughts and prayers to every child. ❤️”

— Chelsea B., Wake Forest, NC
